Must share information about potential incidents of sexual harassment or other sexual misconduct with a

TITLE IX
RESOURCE COORDINATOR

TO ENSURE THAT:

- 1

Students receive consistent, accurate information about the resources and options available from a trained person positioned to assist them.
- 2

Students have access to supportive measures to address any emerging or ongoing challenges.
- 3

The Resource Coordinator can proactively address any trends or community safety concerns.

YOU SHOULD KNOW THAT...
Responsible Employees are asked to promptly share all information they have about the incident disclosed with the Title IX Resource Coordinator. The expectation is inclusive of experiences that happened off campus; rumors or partial information; stalking; abusive relationships; sexual assault; and gender-based harassment.	The Title IX Resource Coordinator will work with the Responsible Employee to consider how the Title IX Resource Coordinator can best reach out to the student thoughtfully, often through a warm referral. This outreach is ordinarily by email and the student may choose to respond immediately, after some time, or not at all.	The outreach email will include an offer to meet and information about resources, including accessing supportive measures, and how to file a formal complaint with the University Title IX Coordinator. A Title IX Resource Coordinator can arrange flexibility for a student through supportive measures, such as academic or housing flexibility, No Contact Orders, educational conversations, or other safety measures.	Resource Coordinators treat information that is shared with them with the utmost sensitivity. Sharing information with a Resource Coordinator is not the same as filing a formal complaint with the University Title IX Coordinator. However, Resource Coordinators can answer questions about the formal complaint process.
